California Rules of Court

Rule 5.425. Limited scope representation; application of rules

(a) Definition

"Limited scope representation" is a relationship between an attorney and a person seeking legal services in which they have agreed that the scope of the legal services will be limited to specific tasks that the attorney will perform for the person.

(b) Application

This rule applies to limited scope representation in family law cases. Rules 3.35 through 3.37 apply to limited scope representation in civil cases.

(c) Types of limited scope representation

These rules recognize two types of limited scope representation:

(1) Noticed representation

This type occurs when an attorney and a party notify the court and other parties of the limited scope representation. The procedures in (d) and (e) apply only to cases involving noticed limited scope representation.

(2) Undisclosed representation

In this type of limited scope representation, a party contracts with an attorney to draft or assist in drafting legal documents, but the attorney does not make an appearance in the case. The procedures in (f) apply to undisclosed representation.

(d) Noticed limited scope representation

(1) A party and an attorney must provide the required notice of their agreement for limited scope representation by serving other parties and filing with the court a Notice of Limited Scope Representation (form FL-950).

(2) After the notice in (1) is received and until a Substitution of Attorney-Civil (form MC-050), or a Notice of Completion of Limited Scope Representation (form FL-955) with the "Final" box checked, or an order to be relieved as attorney is filed and served:

(A) The attorney must be served only with documents that relate to the issues identified in the Notice of Limited Scope Representation (form FL-950); and

(B) Documents that relate to all other issues outside the scope of the attorney's representation must be served directly on the party or the attorney representing the party on those issues.

(3) Electronic service of notices and documents described in this rule is permitted if the client previously agreed in writing to accept service of documents electronically from the attorney.

(4) Before being relieved as counsel, the limited scope attorney must file and serve the order after hearing or judgment following the hearing or trial at which he or she provided representation unless:

(A) Otherwise directed by the court; or

(B) The party agreed in the Notice of Limited Scope Representation (form FL-950) that completion of the order after hearing is not within the scope of the attorney's representation.

(Subd (d) amended effective September 1, 2017.)

(e) Procedures to be relieved as counsel on completion of limited scope representation if client has not signed a substitution of attorney

An attorney who has completed the tasks specified in the Notice of Limited Scope Representation (form FL-950) may use the following procedures to request that he or she be relieved as attorney if the client has not signed a Substitution of Attorney-Civil (form MC-050):

(1) Notice of completion of limited scope representation

The limited scope attorney must serve the client with the following documents:

(A) A Notice of Completion of Limited Scope Representation (form FL-955) with the "Proposed" box marked and the deadline for the client to file the objection completed by the attorney;

(B) Information for Client About Notice of Completion of Limited Scope Representation (form FL-955-INFO); and

(C) A blank Objection to Proposed Notice of Completion of Limited Scope Representation (form FL-956).

(2) No objection

If the client does not file and serve an Objection to Proposed Notice of Completion of Limited Scope Representation (form FL-956) within 10 calendar days from the date that the Notice of Completion of Limited Scope Representation (form FL-955) was served, the limited scope attorney:

(A) Must serve the client and the other parties or, if represented, their attorneys, with a Notice of Completion of Limited Scope Representation (form FL-955) with the "Final" box marked;

(B) Must file the final Notice of Completion of Limited Scope Representation (form FL-955) with the court, and attach the proofs of service of both the "Proposed" and "Final" notices of completion;

(C) May not be charged a fee to file the final notice of completion, even if the attorney has not previously made an appearance in the case; and

(D) Is deemed to be relieved as attorney on the date that the final notice of completion is served on the client.

(3) Objection

If the client files the Objection to Proposed Notice of Completion of Limited Scope Representation (form FL-956) within 10 calendar days from the date that the proposed notice of completion was served, the following procedures apply:

(A) The clerk must set a hearing date on the Objection to Proposed Notice of Completion of Limited Scope Representation (form FL-956) to be conducted no later than 25 court days from the date the objection is filed.

(B) The court may charge a motion fee to file the objection and schedule the hearing.

(C) The objection-including the date, time, and location of the hearing-must be served on the limited scope attorney and all other parties in the case (or on their attorneys, if they are represented). Unless the court orders a different time for service, the objection must be served by the deadline specified in Information for Client About Notice of Completion of Limited Scope Representation (form FL-955-INFO).

(D) If the attorney wishes, he or she may file and serve a Response to Objection to Proposed Notice of Completion of Limited Scope Representation (form FL-957). Unless otherwise directed by the court, any response should be filed with the court and served on the client and other parties, or their attorneys, at least nine court days before the hearing.

(E) Unless otherwise directed by the court, the attorney must prepare the Order on Completion of Limited Scope Representation (form FL-958) and obtain the judge's signature.

(F) The attorney is responsible for filing and serving the order on the client and other parties after the hearing, unless the court directs otherwise.

(G) If the court finds that the attorney has completed the agreed-upon work, the representation is concluded on the date determined by the court in Order on Completion of Limited Scope Representation (form FL-958).

(Subd (e) amended effective January 1, 2018; previously amended and renumbered effective September 1, 2017.)

(f) Nondisclosure of attorney assistance in preparation of court documents

(1) Nondisclosure

In a family law proceeding, an attorney who contracts with a client to draft or assist in drafting legal documents, but does not make an appearance in the case, is not required to disclose within the text of the document that he or she was involved in preparing the documents.

(2) Attorney's fees

If a litigant seeks a court order for attorney's fees incurred as a result of document preparation, the litigant must disclose to the court information required for a proper determination of attorney's fees, including the name of the attorney who assisted in the preparation of the documents, the time involved or other basis for billing, the tasks performed, and the amount billed.

(3) Applicability

This rule does not apply to an attorney who has made a general appearance or has contracted with his or her client to make an appearance on any issue that is the subject of the pleadings.

Rule 5.425 amended effective January 1, 2018; adopted effective January 1, 2013; previously amended effective September 1, 2017.)

Rule 3.35. Definition of limited scope representation; application of rules

(a) Definition

"Limited scope representation" is a relationship between an attorney and a person seeking legal services in which they have agreed that the scope of the legal services will be limited to specific tasks that the attorney will perform for the person.

(b) Application

Rules 3.35 through 3.37 apply to limited scope representation in civil cases, except in family law cases. Rules 5.70 and 5.71 apply to limited scope representation in family law cases.

(c) Types of limited scope representation

These rules recognize two types of limited scope representation:

(1) Noticed representation

Rule 3.36 provides procedures for cases in which an attorney and a party notify the court and other parties of the limited scope representation.

(2) Undisclosed representation

Rule 3.37 applies to cases in which the limited scope representation is not disclosed.

Rule 3.35 adopted effective January 1, 2007.

Rule 3.37. Nondisclosure of attorney assistance in preparation of court documents

(a) Nondisclosure

In a civil proceeding, an attorney who contracts with a client to draft or assist in drafting legal documents, but not to make an appearance in the case, is not required to disclose within the text of the documents that he or she was involved in preparing the documents.

(b) Attorney's fees

If a litigant seeks a court order for attorney's fees incurred as a result of document preparation, the litigant must disclose to the court information required for a proper determination of the attorney's fees, including:

- (1) The name of the attorney who assisted in the preparation of the documents;
- (2) The time involved or other basis for billing;
- (3) The tasks performed; and
- (4) The amount billed.

(c) Application of rule

This rule does not apply to an attorney who has made a general appearance in a case.

Rule 3.37 adopted effective January 1, 2007

Best Practices for Limited Scope/Discrete Task Legal Services: Looking at issues of liability and good practice

Limited Scope/Discrete Task Legal Services (sometimes called “unbundling”) refers to matters in which a client hires an attorney to assist with specific elements of a matter such as legal advice, document preparation or document review, and/or limited appearances. The client and attorney agree on the specific discrete tasks to be performed by the client and the attorney. Depending on the nature of the attorney's involvement, the attorney may or may not enter an appearance with the court. The client represents him/herself in all other aspects of the case.

The special issues governing limited scope fall into three general categories:

- 1. The limitations on scope must be informed and in writing;
- 2. Limitations on scope must be reasonable under the circumstances;
- 3. Changes in scope must be documented;
- 4. An attorney has an affirmative duty to advise the client on related matters, even if not asked.

The following guidelines are designed to assist attorneys in addressing and avoiding malpractice liability in a limited scope/discrete task representation. Limited scope representation does not differ substantially from the rest of your practice, and most of the suggestions which follow are equally applicable to full scope service. However, there are some specialized issues which require consideration.

It is important to note that limiting the scope of your representation does not limit your ethical obligations to the client, including the duty to maintain confidentiality, the duty to act competently, the duty not to communicate with another person known by you to be represented by legal counsel in the matter (absent written permission from counsel to do so), and the duty to avoid conflicts of interest. It is also important to note that limiting the scope of your representation does not limit your exposure to liability for work you have agreed to perform, nor is such a limitation permissible.

Deciding on whether to take the case

- 1. Work within your expertise. As with full scope service, strongly consider rejecting a limited scope matter in areas of law in which you or your firm have little or no experience. Taking a case for the “learning experience” is unwise in limited representation, or any representation. It takes significant expertise in family law to be able to anticipate what issues will arise in a matter, and it is necessary to give good counsel and avoid liability. Even where your representation is limited to particular tasks, you may still owe a duty to alert the client to legal problems outside the scope of your representation that are reasonably apparent and that may require legal assistance. Therefore, you should inform the client not only of the limitation of your representation, of the possible need for other counsel regarding issues you have not agreed to handle.
- 2. Don't be pressured by emergencies. Pay particular attention to prospective clients who have last-minute emergencies and seek limited scope representation. Limited scope representation does not mean that you do not have to provide competent assistance or zealous advocacy. Being pressured to conduct a “quick document review” because of an upcoming deadline is much riskier if you will only be involved in that brief transaction. Consider advice on ways to move the deadline, if possible, to allow adequate time for review or representation.

- 3. Be wary of clients who take a “musical chairs” approach to finding legal help. Consider carefully the requests from prospective limited scope clients who have involved multiple attorneys in the same case. Bouncing around may be an indicator that the client is searching for the “right” answer after being given what they believe are unsatisfactory responses to previous analyses of their situation. You should avoid helping to facilitate situations in which a client may blame you for his/her discontent with the outcome. On the other hand, you may find that previous attorneys were uncomfortable with taking a “piece” of the case and that your prospective client simply had trouble finding an attorney like yourself who was willing to work effectively with them on a limited scope basis. The client may have been viewed as “difficult” because s/he was seeking more of a partnership relationship than the traditional full scope representation envisions.
- 4. Be careful of clients who have unrealistic expectations. A prospective client may be unrealistic about what s/he can achieve alone or about the nature of your limited scope representation. Part of your obligation in offering limited scope services is to teach the client about the legal system and the available remedies. Few non-attorneys will arrive on your doorstep with totally realistic expectations. Their beliefs are likely to have been shaped by what they have seen on TV, what they believe is fair, or what they have been told by neighbors or friends. You bring your knowledge and experience with the legal system to the relationship. If you believe that you will not be successful at reining in a client’s unrealistic expectations, you should decline the representation. It is important that the pro se litigants “hear” your advice in order to partner successfully with you in the representation and carry out a plan with your guidance. Not every client is temperamentally suited to representing him/herself.
- 5. Clients with limited capacity or language barriers may not be good candidates. Since limitations on scope by definition must be informed and in writing. Clients who lack the capacity to give informed consent or assist in their own representation should be avoided. If the limitation is mental, the client is probably not a good candidate. If the limitation is one of language (and many potential limited scope clients have limited English skills) special issues are presented. If you are not bilingual yourself, you should insist on a translator. It is your responsibility to ensure that the client understands the limitations on scope and has the capacity to assist in their representation. This is an individualized assessment. Be creative in your fees or look for sources of pro bono or low cost assistance for these people.
- 6. Identify those with hidden motives. Be wary if the prospective client has trouble focussing on the legal outcome even after you have carefully explained the possible remedies available to them. Emotional needs may be driving the request for assistance. While many cases involve an emotional component, pro per litigants who seek revenge are likely to be unhappy with the limited results that the legal system provides and even unhappier with limited scope services. Clients who require a lot of hand holding are also unsuited to limited scope representation.

7. Make sure the limited scope of your services is reasonable. Although you and your client have substantial latitude in limiting the scope of your representation, the limitation must be reasonable under the circumstances and the client must give you informed consent. If you conclude that a short-term limited representation would not be reasonable under the circumstances, you may offer advice to the client but must also advise the client of the need for further assistance of legal counsel.
8. Identify those with a history of domestic violence seeking limited scope legal assistance in cases involving the batterer. Survivors of domestic violence face special issues when considering self-representation. The power inequities and intimidation present in an abusive situation must be considered. They may raise serious questions about her/his ability to maintain the balance necessary to pursue an action against the batterer. On the other hand, coaching the domestic violence survivor to successfully confront the batterer for the first time may be the best service you can render. The client may not be seeking limited scope services solely for financial reasons; they may be looking specifically for someone who can give them the tools to successfully enforce their own rights. Discuss these issues openly with the client.
9. Clearly address the fee structure and its relation to services. If during your initial interview you find that the prospective client is reluctant to discuss or agree on fees, be cautious. It is critical that the client understands that limited scope services not only limit your fees but also limit the services that you will perform for them. If anything, your fee arrangement must be clearer in limited scope representation than in full service. You must ensure that there is no misunderstanding about what limited services you have agreed to perform. In limited scope representation, it is crucial to be on a “pay as you go” basis, as you may never see the client again.
10. A good diagnostic interview is critical. It is critical to perform a good diagnostic interview to pick up all the critical issues in the case. Both experienced and inexperienced attorneys will find a checklist of issues in the relevant practice area to be extremely helpful in conducting a good diagnostic interview.
11. Develop and use an intake form. A good form should list the key issues and allow room to insert unusual ones. Give a completed copy to the client. It is a contemporaneous record which documents your file, reminds you to ask about related issues, memorializes the limitations on scope, and educates the client. Use and tailor the forms which appear in these materials to make them work for you.
12. Advise the client of their right to seek advice on issues outside the scope of the limited assignment. It is probably a good idea to include in your intake sheet or handouts a statement that the client has been advised of the right to seek counsel on other issues.

After you take the case

13. Use checklists. This documents who is going to do what before the next meeting. Give a copy to the client. Sample checklists have been included in these materials. Tailor them to your specific practice, fill them out while the client is present, and make sure that you and your client each have an initialed copy.

- 14. Use a clear fee agreement detailing the scope of representation. A good limited services fee agreement will spell out exactly what you are doing for the client, and even more importantly, what you are not doing, and will detail what responsibilities the client will assume. There should be no confusion about the scope of the representation. Look at the www.unbundledlaw.org website for sample fee agreements. Four sample fee agreements are included, for situations in which you consult on a single occasion, ongoing consulting, drafting and assistance with strategy and paperwork, and making an appearance for part of the case. Tailor them to each case and to your individual practice. A fee agreement which puts the limitations and checklist in an attachment is probably better suited to a case where you anticipate a change in scope.
- 15. Create a support group of experienced colleagues. Limited experience with handling limited scope representation poses special challenges for newer attorneys or those new to a particular practice area. An experienced practitioner can confirm your analysis, suggest additional issues to explore or divert you from a particular proposed course of action. You might want to locate colleagues who are experienced with offering limited scope representation, and consider creating a study group, referral sources, or general references for each other. Meet with them periodically to discuss common problems and solutions. Most of the issues which will come up in a limited scope practice are practical rather than ethical, and it can be immensely helpful to talk to other practitioners who have faced the issues and developed solutions.
- 16. Practice defensively and document all decisions. This is good advice in any type of legal work. It is particularly essential to document instances in which you offer advice on a particular path for the pro per litigant to take. Use the “Follow Up Checklist” in the materials to document your file and educate the client easily and efficiently.
- 17. Memorialize any changes in the scope of your limited representation as they occur. Never do work outside the scope of the original retention without a new limitation signed by the client. Checklists that attach to the fee agreement are a simple and reliable way to do this. A confirming letter that the client doesn’t sign will probably be insufficient to effectively document the new limit in scope. Be sure that you and the client both sign off on any changes in scope. Use the “Tickler Checklist” in the materials to make sure you’ve done this. Adapt it for your full service cases as an additional risk management device.
- 18. Use prepared handouts. Many of you will already have prepared handouts on common questions which arise in your practice. It is helpful to have one which describes limited scope representation and details the specific options available. Note on your intake sheet which handouts you gave to the client and on what date. A sample client handout on limited scope representation is included in the materials.
- 19. Explain the “why.” Limited scope matters are pursued in partnership with the client. A client who understands the “big picture” and the tradeoffs will not only be more successful in self-representation but also less likely to blame you for unwanted outcomes.
- 20. Making non-client laypersons part of your team is hazardous. Limited scope representation may create an informal feeling to the attorney-client relationship. Remember that, despite the apparent informality, this is an attorney-client relationship. It is between you and your client, not you, your client, Aunt Mary, and others the client may want to have involved. Allowing third parties to participate may destroy the attorney-client privilege. If the client insists on utilizing non-clients, clearly advise them, in writing, in advance, of the risks involved.

- 21. Refrain from providing forms with no assistance or review. Some of the forms which will be required are simply too complicated for a pro per litigant to complete without assistance. Your expert assistance in the completion of these forms is not only a best practice but will also reduce any potential liability.
- 22. Do not encourage a pro per litigant to handle a matter that is too technical or difficult. A prime example of this problem is preparation of a QDRO. Part of your responsibility as an attorney is to counsel a person against handling such a matter in pro per and to help them understand the cost/benefit analysis of using their litigation budget wisely to acquire the expert assistance in the areas where they most need it. This is an individualized assessment.
- 23. Do not expose a client to possible Rule 11 or CCP §128.7 sanctions. A best practice is to satisfy yourself that the pleading you assist the client to prepare would withstand §128.7 scrutiny if your name were on it; or if not, at least advise the client about his/her responsibilities under §128.7

Ending the relationship

- 24. Let the client know when your involvement has ended. There should be no surprises either to you or the client about when your involvement in the matter has ended, and no unstated expectations of continued participation on your part. Send out a notice at the end of your involvement in a matter that involves a series of steps. See the sample “closing letter” in the materials. Notify the client that you believe you have completed your part and advise him/her to get in touch with you immediately if s/he disagrees.
- 25. If you have entered an appearance, let the court know about ending the relationship as well. Use a substitution of attorney or application to be relieved as counsel (see Judicial Council forms enclosed). Don’t attach your limited scope representation agreement to your application to be relieved, since that is a confidential communication.

Use good judgment. Many of these suggestions apply equally to full service representation. Your limited scope clients are likely to be more satisfied than your full service clients if you follow these simple practices. They don’t take much effort and will document your file and educate your clients in ways which substantially increase the likelihood of a satisfactory relationship.

Limited Scope Representation Description

What is limited scope representation?

Limited scope representation (sometimes called “unbundling”) is a way that an attorney can help you with part of your case while you do the rest of your case. For example:

1. You can consult with an attorney to prepare or review your paperwork, but attend the hearing yourself;
2. You can represent yourself through the whole case, and periodically consult with an attorney who can coach you on the law, procedures and strategy;
3. You can do the preparation yourself and hire an attorney just to make the court appearance for you;
4. You may want to do your own investigation of the facts (“discovery”) and ask the attorney to assist you in putting the information in a format which is useful to the court;
5. You may ask the attorney to be on “standby” while you attend the settlement conference yourself.

With limited scope assistance, you may be able to handle the whole case yourself, except for a few technical areas, such as pension rights, where the attorney can help you. It really is between you and the attorney how much of your case you hire them to do. If you do this, it is important to keep returning to the same attorney. Otherwise, you’re paying a new person to get up to speed on your case each time that you consult.

Some areas of the law are extremely technical and it is rare for non-attorneys to effectively handle them. Among these are pension rights, stock options, and business interests. You will almost certainly need the assistance of an attorney if your case involves any of these issues.

Why it is important to discuss your case thoroughly with your attorney

It is important to thoroughly discuss all aspects of your case (even those which you think are simple) with your attorney before deciding which parts you want to do yourself and which ones the attorney will assist you with. It is equally important to realize that there may be important issues presented by your case that you aren’t even aware of. You could be at serious legal risk about an issue you don’t even realize exists. If you don’t discuss them with your attorney, how will you know?

Never make assumptions about the law which applies to your case. The law shows you’ve seen on TV are rarely accurate, and just because you’ve “seen it on TV,” doesn’t mean it is correct, or even “legal.” The only way you know this is to talk it over with a qualified attorney.

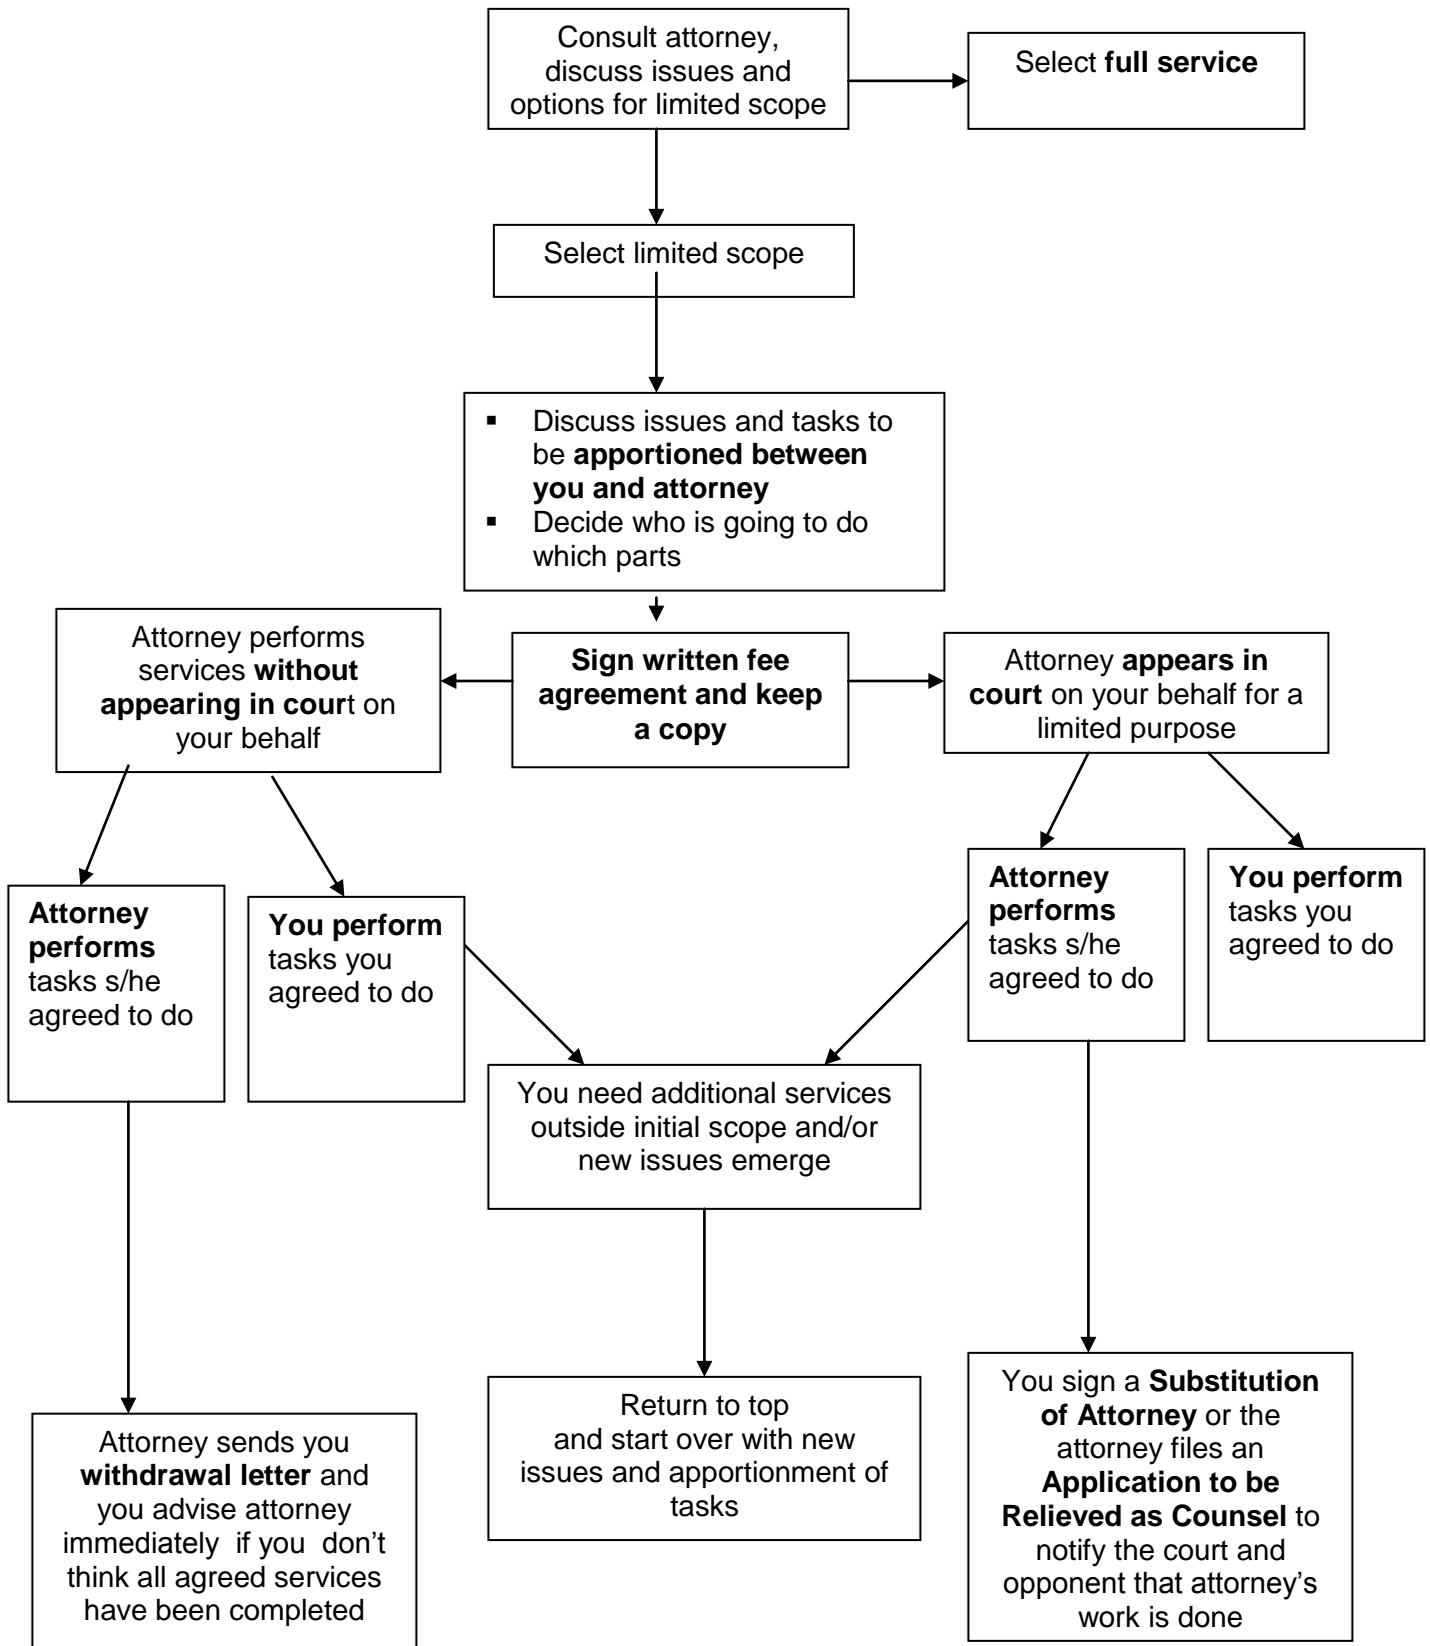

Sometimes new issues will pop up after your case is started. If they do, it is important to advise your attorney and discuss them, so that you know the potential legal consequences to you. Remember that your attorney can only advise you on matters you tell him/her about, so it is essential that you provide complete information about your case.

Remember, you and your attorney are working as a team. That means good communication and a clear understanding of each person’s assignments is essential.

Tasks/Issues to be Apportioned

Two checklists follow. They address the two ways in which limited scope representation arrangements break down. In the first, the client and attorney agree which tasks are to be performed by each of them. This is by far the most common arrangement. In the other model, the attorney handles one or more discrete issues from start to finish, with the client assuming responsibility for the other issues.

The checklists should be tailored to your practice and to each case and may be used in two ways:

1. Use them as part of your intake to memorialize your discussions with the client regarding the limitations on scope, and do a new one each time the scope changes (as it frequently does).
2. Use them as exhibits to the fee agreement of your choice, and replace them each time the scope changes.

Tasks to Be Apportioned May Look Like This:

Client instructs attorney not to do discovery, and undertakes the information gathering role;
Client asks attorney to draft moving or responsive pleadings for a hearing the client attends in pro per;
Client consults with attorney on strategy and tactics;
Client appears at the hearing and asks the attorney to draft the order;
Client asks attorney to review correspondence or pleadings which the client has drafted;
Client asks attorney to prepare subpoenas;
Client asks attorney to write a brief to be filed in pro per;
Client asks attorney to run computer support programs on her, or review and analyze computer support calculations proposed by the opposing party;

Issues to Be Apportioned May Look Like This:

Attorney represents client in connection with custody and visitation issues (maybe including support); client is in pro per on property issues.
Attorney collects past due child support which client enforces the order to sell the house;
Attorney obtains supervised visitation and drug testing orders, and client is in pro per on support issues;
Attorney prepares QDRO dividing pension or order apportioning stock options, while client self-represents on other issues;

Note: Each limited scope arrangement is different, and must be tailored to the client, case and issues presented. These checklists are designed to be flexible and should be tailored to each case.

The purpose of this meeting and conference will be to negotiate a solution short of further dispute resolution proceedings.

If the Attorney and Client cannot agree on a neutral mediator, they will request that the Contra Costa County Bar Association select a mediator. The mediation shall occur within fifteen (15) days after the mediator is selected. The Attorney and Client shall share the costs of the mediation, provided that the payment of costs and any attorney's fees may be mediated. Nothing in this provision shall constitute a waiver of Client's rights to State Bar fee arbitration or a trial de novo after a State Bar fee arbitration.

9. Amendments and Additional Services. This written Agreement governs the entire relationship between Client and Attorney. All amendments shall be in writing and attached to this agreement. - b. Keep attorney or office advised of Client's concerns and any information that is pertinent to Client's case;

All costs payable to third parties in connection with Client's case including filing fees, investigation fees, deposition fees and the like will be paid directly by Client. Attorney will not advance costs to third parties on Client's behalf.

Client acknowledges that Attorney has made no promises about the total amount of Attorney's fees to be incurred by Client under this agreement.

Sample Change in Scope Letter

Re: Limited Scope Representation

Dear _____:

Per our [telephone] conversation of _____, 200_, you have asked me to perform additional tasks for you that are not included in our original Agreement for Limited Scope Representation dated _____ [and modified _____] (copies enclosed).

You have requested and I have agreed to do the following:

[Enumerate the specific tasks/issues that you have agreed to undertake for the client.]

(e.g. to prepare _____ in response to the motion recently filed.)

I understand that you wish to continue handling all other matters yourself as set forth in our original Agreement.

It is essential that we both have the same understanding of our respective responsibilities in connection with your case. I am unable to begin to work on the new task[s] until one copy of the signed revised checklist has been returned to me. [If applicable] Some of the tasks you want me to undertake have significant time constraints which could seriously impact your legal rights. It is therefore extremely important that you complete and initial a new Tasks/Issues checklist to memorialize the new scope of my involvement in your case. I've prepared and enclosed two copies of a new checklist, which I believe covers the changes to the prior Agreement for Limited Scope Representation. If time is of the essence in taking the necessary steps to protect your rights in this new area, you should consider either coming to my office to sign the checklist, or fax me a signed copy so I can start.

Please review it carefully and, if you agree, initial BOTH copies, and return one to me in the envelope provided. The other copy is for your records and should be attached to your copy of our Agreement for Limited Scope Representation.

I encourage you to seek the advice of other counsel in connection with tasks which I have not undertaken. Also, please feel free to consult with another attorney of your choice regarding this revised Agreement before signing and returning it to me.

I look forward to working with you on this new matter.

Very truly yours,
